SADDLE BAG CO.

ABOUT US

Alder Ranch Saddle Bag Company is a family run business. It is named after the first hobby horse farm of co-owner, Brett McRoberts, which he started from scratch by clearing the small acreage of overgrown tag alders in Gravenhurst, Ontario, Canada.

While raising his horses, Brett's interest in trail riding grew, particularly, pack tripping overnight. While on his excursions, he realized a need for a practical saddle bag system that would carry everything required to camp with his horse. After shopping around, he quickly discovered that there were not many suitable products on the market, so he began designing one he felt would be useful for all trail riders.. He chose heavy-duty denier nylon for the material and designed the first product now known as "The Ultimate Saddle Bag System." Brett put the prototype to the test on an overnight pack trip in the Blue Mountains of Collingwood and found it was just what he needed.

To put his idea into action, he formed a partnership with his sister, Tanya McRoberts, and thus, Alder Ranch Saddle Bag Company was formed. With her design and production background, they set out to provide the horse riding industry with the most innovative, versatile and durable nylon saddle bags available. Today, they believe they have achieved this and will continue to offer high quality products, proudly "Made in Canada".

Saddle bag-up, Partner, and see you on the trails!
